Web One-Pager

Objective
My final project is a web, interactive version of my resume for users to click through to see active portfolio links.

Summary
Damanig.com will be the place where employers can fully engage in my resume, as it becomes a fully interactive webpage instead of the normal PDF file. Buttons and links will be highlighted and emphasized when the mouse roles over it. My resume will be a direct route for people to click on the link to my online portfolio, as well as other links to showcase work. Having a visually appealing resume is the key to draw attention and it showcases the creativity that goes into my work.
